Sterling Drug Co. for several years while Mr. Priest has been prescription clerk at F. C. Duerson's for some time. They are two of the most energetic and deserving young men in Mt. Sterling and have the best wishes of many friends in this new enterprise.

Mr. Kennedy has not as yet decided as to what business he will engage in.

DEATH PUTS END TO ROMANCE

It was a sad Christmas this year for Miss Mary McClure Fogg, of this city, whose fiancé, Mr. James Bratton Luft, was suddenly killed Monday Dec. 22, by an auto accident shortly after he had gotten to his home in Danville, N. Y., for the holidays from the University of Cincinnati, which he had been attending the last five years. The two were to have been married in March and had many of the arrangements planned. The prospective bridegroom was touring alone in his car toward home when, turning suddenly to miss another car, he lost control of his machine and went over a sixteen foot embankment. The heavy car fell on him, killing him instantly.

The two have many friends and relatives in the Blue Grass and some in Lexington. The news of the accident was a terrific shock to the prospective bride, who is heart-broken over the affair and has been the object of much sympathy.

INFANTICIDE MAKES ESCAPE

Whereabouts of Woman Who is Charged With Killing Child Unknown

Information has just reached Sheriff W. F. Crooks, that Mate Burns, a young white woman of the Jeffersonville neighborhood, now under indictment for the alleged murder of her infant child, has recently made her escape and her whereabouts are unknown.

On August, 20th, last she is alleged to have thrown her one day old baby into an old well and its death is alleged to have been due to drowning. Because of exposure, the woman was reported to be in a dangerous, if not a dying condition, and acting Circuit Judge Kirk, upon the return of the indictment against her, at the last term of our court, sent a physician to ascertain her condition and he reported her too ill to be moved to jail. Since then Sheriff Crooks has had frequent reports regarding her condition, all to the effect that she could not be moved. Where she has gone no one is willing to tell who knows, but a vigilant effort will be made to apprehend her.

GOOD COMPANY AT TABB THEATER

The Shannon Stock Company which will be at the Tabb Theater all this week, began their engagement Monday night with "A Receipt in Full." The house was crowded, every seat being taken and the performance was first class. The parts were well taken, the costumes far superior to any ever seen here in a company showing at the prices charged by this one. The Shannon Stock Company came here well recommended and judging from the first performance it is everything that is claimed for it.

Pulling For Judge Wall

A delegation of prominent Maysville Democrats, composed of Circuit Judge C. D. Newell, T. D. Slattery and C. L. Wood, called on Gov. McCreary yesterday in the interest of the reappointment of Judge Garrett S. Wall, of Maysville, as a Democratic member of the State Board of Control of Charitable Institutions. They pointed out to Gov. McCreary the zeal and splendid administrative ability shown by Judge Wall during his four-year tenure as a member of the board which has charge of the three State Hospitals for the Insane, and the Institute for the Feeble-minded, the most of the time as president of the commission. They expressed themselves as very hopeful of the success of their mission. Judge Wall's term will expire with this year. —Louisville Times.

One seldom sees a man of Judge Wall's recognized ability, admitted honesty and general fitness for public service, willing to accept public office. Such men are in demand in all lines of human endeavor and are usually found in the more remunerative positions of commercial activity. We therefore hope the Governor will honor our State, as well as himself, by re-appointing Judge Wall to the place he has for four years so admirably filled.

New Year Resolutions

The season of good resolutions is near at hand. For our part, we believe in the making of New Year resolutions. It is true, they are almost always broken and that quickly, yet one invariably resolves to do better in some particular, such as stop a bad habit, become more economical or industrious, or prompt in the payment of debts, and as long as the resolution is observed, the result is good; so that even admitting that one's New Year resolutions are not kept, it cannot be denied that they are made in good faith and that they are a step in the right direction.

If our suggestion to the City Council not to accept Maysville street until such time as it can be definitely known whether the work is first class or not, is followed, the people will undoubtedly receive what they pay for. If the work is hastily accepted, however, we predict it will prove a serious and expensive blunder.

So much criticism has recently appeared in the press of the country, relative to the Delaware Whipping Post, that we are frank to confess we were about convinced that it ought to go, until a few days ago, when by chance, we heard of an old lady seventy-two years of age, in our own county, detail in court, such acts of brutality at the hands of her only son, as to cause us to rapidly conclude that in some cases at least, a whipping post and a willing right arm, are good things after all.

In rounding out sixteen useful years of public service, Esq. C. G. Thompson last week had some needed repairs made to the walk around the court house at the southwest corner.

The county in general and the court house and grounds in particular, will miss his watchful care and efficient services.

We congratulate our county upon the excellent order maintained thus far during the holidays.

PAY YOUR JANUARY BILLS PROMPTLY

Thursday, January 1, will be "Bill Day," when all kinds of accounts, monthly, quarterly and semi-annual, will fall due, and every good, thoughtful citizen ought to see to it that collectors are given a glad hand and sent away rejoicing.

Business men are the victims of the extended credit system and deserve more sympathy than they receive because of the unfortunate tendency of many otherwise considerate customers to put off paying just and long-standing accounts when they are presented.

Too many people ask for and receive credit as a matter of right and resent the entirely proper efforts of collectors to secure payments of accounts.

Merchants incur obligations for goods on the prospect of selling them and collecting their accounts, and the failure of patrons to meet their obligations promptly is the frequent cause of embarrassing financial situations and commercial disasters.

Many a business man has had to ask for extensions from wholesale houses and banks and finally damaged his credit when he had thousands of dollars on his books in the names of "good people" who neglected to pay their accounts when rendered.

A man in business hesitates to sue his delinquent customers, as that is a source of provocation and expense, and yet he is often helpless in the face of pressing creditors.

Let everybody start off the new year by making a determined effort to pay every bill as presented, and the result will be easier trade conditions for all.

Have your check book ready on Thursday morning.

SUMMER'S GOODBY.

SHE smiles goodby in gates of green;
She lifts her hands o'er eyes to screen
The garish, burning August sun;
Her fields are ripe, her race is run.
Goodby, goodby, dear lady mine,
With all your golden harvests done
And all your heart of ruby wine!

She stands beside her bin and byre,
Her golden girlhood of desire
Still beating with its dream of morn
Within the rustling gates of corn.
Goodby, goodby, how soft and low
The echo of her voice is borne,
How terrible it is to go!

The vales are weary of the light,
The round moon tips the magic night,
The homing dove goes by in gray,
The world is very sad today.
Goodby, goodby, to all thy dreams,
Dear sister of the league of May,
Borne outward by eternal streams!

Her cheeks are brown, her hand is round,
Her bare feet touch like dew the ground;
She sings goodby through smile and tear
Besides her gates of green, the dear.
Goodby, goodby, sweet maiden night,
In love beyond the reach of fear—
Through gates of dream she cries good night!

—Baltimore Sun.

LOST LOVE.

WHO wins his love shall lose her,
Who loses her shall gain,
For still the spirit woos her,
A soul without a stain,
And memory still pursues her
With longings not in vain.

HE loses her who gains her,
Who watches day by day
The dust of time that stains her,
The grief that leaves her gray,
The flesh that yet enchains her
Whose grace has passed away.

OH, happier he who gains not
The love some seem to gain!
The joy that custom stains not Shall still with him remain,
The loveliness that wanes not,
The love that never can wane.

IN dream she grows not older
The land of dreams among,
Though all the world wax colder,
Though all the songs be sung,
In dreams doth he behold her Still fair and kind and young.

—Andrew Lang.

IMMUNITY.

I HELD your hand; I kissed your mouth
And caught the germ. I felt the sting
Of it. The wind blew from the south;
I slept and wakened worshipping.

I said: "I'm old, with heart still young;
All that's to learn of love I know;
So many times have I been stung
I am immune." It is not so.

I hurried north. Your sunny land,
Wherein my boyhood's passions grew,
Held fire that I could not withstand;
Yet could not get away from you.

I rested near a northern stream
Where wonderful wild roses are;
You overtook me in a dream;
I rose and sought the glacier.

The northland breathes the breath of June;
The glittering glaciers melt and flow,
And I—I thought I was immune!
It is not so. It is not so.

—Cy Warman.

A SONG OF THE CITY.

IF you come to ask your fortune
Of the city
You must swear to take whatever she may give.
You must strip yourself of frivolous desire,
Wanting nothing but a fighting chance to live.

You've got to look her in the eyes,
unshaking,
Forgetting when she tries you overlong.
You've got to gamely take a long day's grilling
And start the next one whistling a song.

Then, when she's found that you won't take a breaking,
That you can play the game, she'll play it fair.
When you've offered her your strength and youth, unflinching, She'll take you to her heart and hold you there.

—Elizabeth Kirkman.

THE BEWILDERED SEER.

I KNOW that eggs and butter-bread
Will make me strong and wise;
I know that silkworms spin their thread
To dress the butterflies.

WHEN roses blossom on the earth
Their tears are mist and dew;
When little babies die at birth
They paint the heavens blue.

I KNOW a thousand stranger things,
Like toads that turn to glass
And bats that take off water wings
And dry them on the grass.

BUT I don't know where hours stay
Nor where time keeps the light,
Nor how a big thing like today
Can hide itself tonight.

—Jane Burr.

LOVE'S CRUCIBLE.

WHAT a grim thing it is that you and I So intimate, so bound by every tie,
Can never read each other's secret thought,

Must be contented with the glimpse we've caught,
Can face each other calmly, eye to eye,
And, with our souls protesting, speak a lie!

That while you wound me with indifference
Or cruel words or meager recompense,
Your heart with love for me may be aglow,
Yet, looking in your eyes, I cannot know.
—Lillian Lauferty.

THE VOICE.

THERE is only one law and only one
God
For all things under the sun—
The sea, and the sand, and the wind blown soul,
And the God and the law are one.

AND whatever the law and the God be named
By beings like you and me,
They speak supreme in that cosmic voice
Which men call harmony.
—Albert Bigelow Paine.

BEEF SALADS.

MEAT salads afford the housewife an easy way of using cold meat.
They are delicious and nourishing. Some recipes for making beef salads are given here.

If you live where hothouse tomatoes are available the following makes an attractive and delicious salad:

Beef and Tomato Salad.—Take one cupful of chopped beef, one tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoonful of chopped onion, one-half teaspoonful of salt, six tomatoes and one head of lettuce. Mix the seasoning with the meat. Peel the tomatoes, cut off their stem ends and scoop out the seeds. Then fill the shells with the meat and arrange on lettuce leaves.

With Cold Boiled Meat.

Plain Beef Salad.—Cut half a pound of cold boiled beef into pieces an inch and a half long and as thin as possible.
Put in a bowl and season with a pinch of salt and pepper. Then slice with it two medium sized boiled potatoes and a pinch of parsley. This may be dressed with either pickles or pickled beets.
Some plain boiled beets may be mixed in with the other ingredients. Served with a plain French dressing it makes a nice tasting salad.

over boiled beef and let it lie for an hour in a dressing made as follows:
Thin one scant spoonful of mustard with vinegar and oil, enough to soak the meat in. Add salt, pepper, a pinch of chopped chervil, the same quantity of parsley and as much of tarragon.
Leave in the dressing at least one-half hour before serving. One may add a little chopped onion or gherkin or rub the dish in which it is served with a clove of garlic.

A French Salad.

Spiced Beef Salad.—Take some cold beef, free it from skin and bone and cut it into small dice. For each pint make a French dressing with four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper.
Marinate the meat with it. Set aside for an hour or more that it may be impregnated with the dressing. If you have any cold vegetables pour boiling water over them to rinse off any previous sauce or dressing, drain and mar-inate separately with French dressing.
Arrange a bed of lettuce or other green salad on a platter, pour on it the meat and garnish with the vegetables.

WINTER VEGETABLE SOUPS.

DINNER MENU.

Vegetable Soup.
Mashed Turnips and Carrots.
Braised Beef.
Mashed Potatoes.
Lettuce Salad.
Lemon Jelly.
Coffee.

A NICE hot soup makes a wholesome introduction to the winter dinner. Vegetable soups are the most generally popular.

Some ways of making various vegetable soups have been gathered together here.

Made With Stock.

Rich Vegetable Soup.—Take two or three onions, carrots and turnips, a quart of veal stock, an ounce of butter, the yolk of an egg, a teaspoonful of canned green peas. Melt the butter and lightly fry the diced onions, carrots and turnips. Add the stock and cook the vegetables until tender. Add the yolk of an egg to the soup just before serving. This must not be done when the soup is boiling, otherwise it will curdle. Cook the green peas separately and add to the soup just before serving.

Cream of Vegetable Soup.—Leftover vegetables may be utilized in this.
Take a spoonful of cold mashed potatoes, a cupful of stock or of any available cold soups, a little cold cabbage and some gravy and put in a small saucepan. Any leftover meat can be used. Add two cupfuls of hot water, a little onion juice and heat through.
Add two cupfuls of boiling milk. Rub one teaspoonful of butter with one teaspoonful of flour until smooth and add to the soup. You can strain and mash through strainer and serve in cups or leave all the vegetables in and add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and serve in plates.

Flavored With Bacon.

Vegetable Purée.—Take one onion,
two carrots, one-half a rutabaga, a stalk of celery, two potatoes, one cupful of sweet milk, one egg, four slices of bacon, two tablespoonfuls of rice, one tablespoonful of butter. Cut up the vegetables. Put the bacon on a frying pan and cook until all the grease is removed. Drop the onion into the hot grease and fry brown. Remove the bacon and pour the contents of the frying pan into the vessel in which the soup is to be made. Put in the vegetables with water and cook until the turnips are done. Beat the egg with the milk, pour it into the soup, stirring constantly; add the butter and let it boil up again. Season to taste.

VISITING HUNTERS.

Mr. Ramey Macey, one of the leading horsemen of the Grand Circuit, Mr. J. White Guynn, the efficient City Engineer of Lexington, and Mr. Carroll Taylor, one of the leading real estate men of Lexington, were visitors to our city last week. The gentlemen were persuaded to go on a hunting trip by a couple of our local jokers during the time when the snow was seven or eight inches deep, under the promise that rabbits were as thick as fleas on a dog's back and owing to the deep snow had no chance to get away. After tramping all day long without any success they were met by one of our generous farmers who took pity on the gentlemen and gave them three rabbits he had killed.

It is told on them that there was only one rabbit seen and after all of them had taken a shot at him Mr. Guynn, who will be remembered as a star of the old State College Foot Ball Team a few years ago, attempted to run the rabbit down, but the rabbit out run him, so it looks like he has lost some of his speed. Come up again fellows the boys will treat you better next time.

STOOPS.
(By B. M. Goodan.)

(Received too late for last issue)

The dry weather badly delayed tobacco men with their stripping.

An unusually large amount of plowing has been done.

Frank Bell and George Sanders recently returned from Illinois. They will remain in Kentucky.

If the after effects of Xmas last as long as those before, there will have been one great spell of Christmas this time.

Halley L. Gillaspie, who attends K. M. I. at Lyndon, Ky., is at home for the holidays.

Roxie Warner, of Dayton, O., has returned home after a visit to relatives.

Most all farmers who have sold tobacco seem to be satisfied with the prices received.

What has become of all the Advocate correspondents? It is the humble opinion of the writer that in these modern times the country correspondents' usefulness is over. The dense population and modern improvements make town and country about the same. Time will soon roll around when Mt. Sterling will be a suburb of Stoops.

Richard Wells, of Middletown, Ohio, has been visiting relatives here.

Carroll Cassidy has gone to be with his brother, Fred, who is very sick.

Ben Copher has returned home from Cincinnati where he took a course in a barber college.

James J. Scott, of South Dakota, has been visiting relatives in this section.

Rolla Royse and family came last week from Platte county, Mo. They will remain in Kentucky during the winter.

Miss Stella Cophens' scholars enjoyed a fine Christmas tree at the school house Friday afternoon.

May the Advocate and readers spend a grand and glorious Christmas.

But This Does Not Bother Mrs. Burton, Under the Circumstances.

Houston, Texas.—In an interesting letter from this city, Mrs. S. C. Burton writes as follows: "I think it is my duty to tell you what your medicine, Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me.

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, don't allow the trouble to become chronic. Begin taking Cardui to-day. It is purely vegetable, its ingredients acting in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly constitution. You run no risk in trying Cardui. It has been helping weak women back to health and strength for more than 50 years. It will help you. At all dealers.

CONFIRMED PROOF

Residents of Mt. Sterling Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice proved.

In gratitude for relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Mt. Sterling, who so testified years ago, now say the results were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Mt. Sterling kidney sufferers.

John Forman, 8 Montgomery street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I have been a hard worker all my life and never once considered that to over-do would some day bring on kidney trouble. When I had some lifting or heavy work to do, I just went about it and did it and in that way wrenched my back. I was laid up for several days at the time and began looking around for a cure. I did not find anything that would help me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Duerson's Drug Store. They soon made me feel well and strong and free from kidney trouble. I am glad to confirm what I said about Doan's Kidney Pills before."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MRS. INGRAM IMPROVING.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ingram, the young sixteen-year-old girl, wife of George Ingram, who attempted suicide here about ten days ago, is recovering and has been discharged by her physicians, Drs. Willis and Simrall. The young woman now regrets the attempt at self-destruction. She is able to be about the house. The recovery, after taking enough poison to kill several people, is almost a miracle.

Eighty persons, mostly children, were killed at a Christmas celebration given by copper mine strikers at Calumet, Mich., when a panic followed a call of "fire" by an unknown intruder. The principal exit was a narrow stairway at the back of the hall. When this had been cleared of the bodies that filled it to the top and a quick accounting had been made it was found that the dead included thirty-seven girls, nineteen boys, thirteen women, and five men. The panic began just as the children had crowded around the stage to receive Christmas presents.

Montgomery Ward began life as a day laborer. He arose from the ditch to the presidency of one of the largest mail order houses in the world. He was 70 when he died and his estate is valued at $15,000,000. When a youth, struggling for foothold, Montgomery Ward did not keep his eye on the clock. He worked and saved. He saved and he worked and he climbed to the top of the mercantile ladder. This is a land of opportunity, a land of promise, and a land of hope. Montgomery Ward found it so.

Christmas Savings Club Suggestions

From Other Cities

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUBS—such as we are conducting, are very popular in many other cities and towns in this and other States.

IN SEVERAL CITIES

100 or more members of a congregation have joined and will use their combined savings as a fund next Christmas towards paying church debts.

IN SEVERAL TOWNS

The members of Sunday School classes have joined, and in each instance will club together and use the money for the purpose of buying the teacher a present.

IN OTHER TOWNS

Societies, Churches, Sunday Schools, Charity and other organizations have joined to save money for a specific purpose.

The Plan Is an Excellent One and can be applied to a number of commendable enterprises. The small amounts payable weekly into the Club can be spared by each person without inconvenience, and when a number of persons associate together for a special purpose the combined results of their efforts will be a large sum which may be applied as a Christmas offering or used in other ways for a good cause.

A MESSAGE FOR 1914.

After you've addressed your last New Year's card, sit down and address a few good resolutions to yourself. But this time don't close the incident with a wish. All your life long you have been hoping that good luck would watch out for you for the rest of the year. Turn about in 1914 and try hard work. Providence has a bad memory for those who do not help themselves. Fortune doesn't canvass from door to door. You can be or have as much as your equal if you do as much.

There are no limits to the possibility of human will. But desire is not a creative force. Hope is only an architect. You must build as we'll as plan. Those who have accomplished the most are not necessarily superior human beings. Man does not perform miracles he merely achieves practical results through earnest application. In every community there are a few persons who think clearly, cling to their determinations, and persist in their efforts to rise. The tools for success are standard. They belong to rich and poor alike. No sound and whole body enters this world possessed of faculties which nature will not bestow upon all humanity.

But you and the majority of your acquaintances have made no genuine attempt to utilize your advantages to the utmost. You have not done justice to your gifts. You have not even examined your machine shop. Back of your forehead there is an equipment of lathes, drills, engines and dynamos, which, when properly applied, can perform any task.

Time and again you have complained of your chances, when all the while opportunity has been signalling you, smiling, calling, and crooking her finger in your direction, every hour of every day. How often have you remarked to your friends that you had thought of a device, an improvement, an enterprise, or an idea, which rendered another man famous or affluent? You aren't handicapped except by your lack of initiative. You aim too low. You tire too easily. Your ambitions are commonplace. You lack daring and doggedness.

To which you probably answer: "My education was neglected—I have been held back by my responsibilities—the openings in my town are very few." Excuses—every one of them. Education is only training, and anybody who can be benefitted by a college has a mind which can be developed by self-training. Schools preach rules; they do not teach originality. They tell what has been done; but enterprise finds its own paths.

The Twentieth Century has

BRONCHITIS CONQUERED

Royersford, Pa., Man Tells How.

At this season of year with such sudden changes, it is so easy to take cold, and almost before one is aware there is inflammation in the bronchial tubes—a hard cough and unless checked in time chronic pulmonary troubles may result.

Townsend Young of Royersford, Pa., says: "A severe bronchial trouble contracted caused me much difficulty about breathing. My chest felt clogged up and there was considerable soreness. I tried different remedies without help; but I am glad to say that Vinol cured my bronchial trouble which had lasted for three months. My breathing is all right and the soreness entirely gone from my chest."

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cods' livers (without oil) and tonic iron. We guarantee it to be delicious in taste and to satisfy you with its medicinal effects.

P. S. If you have any skin trouble try Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

W. S. Lloyd, Druggist, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

provided you with advantages which your grandfather could not imagine, much less secure, and yet out of his time sprang men who were giants of commerce and unequalled in statesmanship. If you are half as earnest as they were, you can win with half the effort they did.

Responsibilities aren't handicaps, but incentives. When we fight for those who are not near and dear we wage a better battle than if we seek selfishly. Burden-bearing strengthens; it does not weaken. The need and welfare of wives and patents and children are spurs, not shackles. Stay at home. Prosperity doesn't belong in any one spot; it does not require a certain soil or a special climate. It finds fertile ground everywhere. Openings do not come ready-made. Capability can assert itself in a village as quickly as in the Metropolis. There are many more failures pro rata to the population in big cities than in cross-road settlements. Skyscrapers and tenement walls cut off the horizon and shorten perspective, but out in the open where skies are illimitable and the distances are purple, there's room enough to think to the roof of the universe. Believe in yourself, and then equip your body and your brain to fulfill your aspirations. Live sanely, think fearlessly, and dare to dream, and then set about finding a road for your ambition. You can survey it, within your own heart—persistence and courage will guide to all goals.

No man is greater than his resolution. Success, like charity, must begin at home. Society does not help those who do not help themselves. The world neither elects nor selects its leaders. It acknowledges their superiority only after the individual has forced his fellows to realize his strength.

You must uncover your talents before your neighbors can discover them. Form the acquaintance of your latent self. There's a superior being lurking within almost every commonplace human, unable to assert his individuality because his other self won't give him a hearing. In your heart of hearts, you know that you have never explored your hidden store of instincts and attributes. During the past twelve months, you have probably not made one earnest attempt to drag your bigger personality out of its concealment. You've accepted conditions as you found them—not that you aren't aware that a hundred changes could be made right in your own community. Time and again you've remarked that some fellow ought to take hold of things and put some spirit into the town.

You're the man. You don't have to look farther; simply execute the very ideas that you're leaving for an unknown to develop. Nobody can limit your future if you remove your self-imposed limits. Possibilities be-

VALE, 1913!

As the old year goes out on the dark'ning tide, Give it a cheer and a ringing "Good-bye!" Wave it farewell as we all stand aside; It MIGHT have been better but now it must die.

Nineteen Thirteen! To some it has shown The sunshine of happiness, joy and success; To others it's meant a hard journey alone, And worry well mingled with bitter distress.

And yet, whether kind or cruel to you, There's this to be said—if we but understand, Like a child that is wayward, it never quite knew What to do next—and it TRIED to be good!

come probabilities as soon as they are seriously attempted.

So, here's hoping that the New Year bring you to yourself. Faith is the key to every treasure of earth as well as Heaven. Nineteen-fourteen offers you another chance. Seize it.

A GOOD CAUSE.

The Hazelrigg Bible Class of the Christian church, in lieu of holding a memorial service for their deceased teacher, Rev. H. D. Clarke, gave a "Clarke Christmas" to the poor and needy of the city. They adopted as their slogan, "No Empty Stockings in Mt. Sterling," and appointed committees which secured the names of every child and family in the city that need Christmas assistance. The deaconess, Miss McCoy, worked in conjunction with the class, and each gift was given as a memorial to Rev. Clarke.

CHRISTMAS PLAY.

The pupils of the Montgomery County High school gave the pretty comedy, "The Birds Christmas Carol," at the chapel Tuesday evening, Dec. 23rd, which was attended by a very large crowd. The entertainment was enjoyed and the proceeds will go toward paying for the piano recently purchased. The play was under the direction of Miss Nell Whaley. Each participant acted under their part creditably. About $27 was realized. The musical feature was excellent.

STATE HOSPITAL

FOR DRUNKARDS

"One of the great needs of the State is a drunkard's hospital, and if I were a member of the Legislature I would devote my best efforts to passing a bill establishing such an institution," remarked Mayor J. E. Cassity, Lexington, who had dropped in at the police station and saw the usual filling in of Christmas "bunks," one of whom he had loaded at noon from the workhouse in the customary holiday party.

Such an institution would be self-supporting, too. Most of the drunkards when kept from the use of intoxicants and given active labor in the open air would become able and energetic workmen, and would render the institution not only self-supporting, but a source of revenue to the State. The excess over cost of their labors could be applied to the support of their families. You could put them in say for a year. At the end of that time they would come out healthy. If they fell from grace then send them back for a term of two years, and if they were not eventually reformed they would at least cease to be a burden on the communities in which they lived.

"My plan would be for the State to get a farm of about 500 acres, build an impregnable fence around it and have guards like any other reformatory institution. Within this inclosure have the inmates perform all the duties of raising crops, dairying and all of the other functions of a model farm, with perhaps some light form of manufacturing for those who had skill in that way. To this place I would have sent all persons found guilty of habitual drunkenness, and I believe it would be one of the greatest institutions for good which the State could have."

In this connection Chief of Police, J. J. Reagan, who agreed with the Mayor's idea, said he thought there ought to be a similar fence with guards around the School of Reform.

PRESENCE OF MIND

SAVES GARRETT'S LIFE.

A thrilling escape from death was experienced in Winchester last Wednesday by Congressman Finis J. Garrett, of the Ninth Tennessee district. Congressman Garrett was en route from Washington to his home in Dresden, Tenn., and was a passenger on C. & O. train No. 23, due at 4:15 o'clock, which was running an hour late. He got off the train at Winchester to send some telegrams. When he came out of the station the train had started. Mr. Garrett ran a considerable distance and was able to catch to the railing of the rear coach, which was vestibuled by one hand. He was dragged past Main street. At this point the train had gained full speed. Half a dozen ineffectual attempts by Mr. Garrett were made to get a better hold on the railing, while frenzied bystanders yelled to him to jump. Several times his body was almost within the path of the menacing wheels as he attempted to push himself away from the flying train. After the train had passed the flag station, beyond Main street, Mr. Garrett succeeded in grasping to the rail with his other hand, and, bracing one foot against the step, released his hold and rolled over an embankment unhurt.

At the Brown-Proctoria Hotel Mr. Garrett presented a sad spectacle, as, plastered with mud but smiling, he secured a room for the night. "I feel sure," he said, commenting on his thrilling experience, "that it was the hand of Providence that kept me from being crushed to death tonight." He said he heard distinctly the yells and pleas of the people for him to jump, but he knew it would mean death, so he held vigorously on to the railing until he came to a soft landing place. Witnesses attribute Mr. Garrett's escape to his presence of mind.

Mr. Garrett is a member of Congress from the Ninth Tennessee district, which adjoins the First Kentucky district. He was on his way home from Washington.

CHEER UP, BROTHER.

So you feel that you are a failure because you don't measure up to your own standards, every day in the week?

Buck up, brother? That's the way all good, go-ahead men feel sometimes!

If they weren't dissatisfied with their performances as well as their promises, they'd be trotting around in a circle; and that means business dry rot, if anyone asks you.

A certain amount of self-dissatisfaction is the best tonic in the world for the Genus man. It keeps him from broodin' on bein' a man,—like David Harum's flea-bitten dog, you know.

As long as you can find fault with yourself and your works, you're alive, my friend.

When you get to the point where you feel sorry for other men, or managers, or presidents—or porters—as you, then is the time for the doctor to put you on a diet and prescribe perfect quiet—to keep you from going crazy about yourself!

Don't get the glooms over self-distrust. Ambition and dissatisfaction are half brothers, anyway.

A SERMON IN RHYME

There ain't no use in worryin' it does no good to fret. This fear of what the future has ain't helped man one whit yet. The feller who can cut it out for now and for all time, is worth a million dollars though he may not have a dime. Diseases kill a lot of folks an' wars take lots of men, while big disasters wipe 'em out, oh, ev'ry now an' then. But, though each year they're fatal to a great big mighty host, it's my belief that worry's got 'em beat—it kills the most. You're only here a little while, my friend, so wha's the use of lettin' worry get your goat an' with it raise the deuce? What if old trouble gets you down an' soaks you in the eye? You'll find that he can't keep you there—you'll get up by an' by. The flowers that you knew last year, the birds that used to sing may now be gone but they'll return to greet you in the spring. There ain't no good in worryin', of that, friend, there's no doubt. So grit your teeth an' wear a grin an' cut that frettin' out.
